Can you picnic at your facility?

Picnicking generally isn’t an option at most wastewater lift stations. The scene pictured above is an exception. Thousands of day-trippers, picnickers, and boaters visit Glorietta Bay Park in Coronado, California, every year. Most of them probably don’t realize their playground includes a wastewater facility.

A grass-covered Bohn Biofilter makes that possible.

Our biofiltration system performs above the industry standard, removing greater than 99 percent of hydrogen sulfide emissions and all odors. Its engineered soil medium is low-maintenance, low-cost, and comes with a performance guarantee.

Sound attractive? It is! It’s effective odor control... it’s a beautiful landscape... and it’s only available from Bohn Biofilter.
